Dear Peg Perego Customer,

In cooperation with Health Canada, Peg Perego is conducting a voluntary safety campaign for the YPSI and Z4 bassinets manufactured from January 2019 to March 2023. No accidents or injuries have been reported. Due to the presence of a headrest adjustment feature that inclines the bassinet surface, Health Canada and Peg Perego have determined the risk of improper use for overnight sleep in an inclined position. When used in bassinet mode for overnight sleep, the surface of bassinet should always be flat. Consumers should stop using the bassinet and follow the instructions below to remove the headrest adjustment feature. Once this feature is removed, the bassinet surface will always be in the flat position.

Please immediately stop using the bassinet and follow the instructions below:

1) Please verify that your bassinet was manufactured from January 2019 to March 2023, by checking the manufacturing date and model number label. The manufacture date in YYYY/MM/DD format is in the hood/head area of the bassinet and can be found by lifting the bassinet's pad/cushion and internal lining. The model number can be found on the same label beneath the date code. The YPSI and Z4 bassinets were sold in the following colors and model numbers:
